INGERSOLL ASKED TO PREACH

Dr. Rusk of the Militant Church, Will Welcome Him.

Dr. John Rusk, of the Militant Church, Chicago, has written to Col. Ingersoll inviting him, "to preach for us some Sunday morning the near future on the subject of your views as to what the Christian Church should do, and how."

Speaking of the matter, Dr. Rusk said:

"It may not be remembered generally that Col. Ingersoll at one time visited a modern institutional church—one of the many practical working churches which are doing grand work for humanity to-day. He expressed sympathy with the work and admiration of the possibilities of such church activity, and said he would like to join that kind of a church himself. I firmly believe that if there had been an institutional church when Ingersoll was a boy he would have been into the work heart and soul, and that he would have been America's greatest divine instead of the greatest enemy of organized Christianity. As it is, he has made people think. The churches have been cold and lifeless. In fact they make more infidels every year than Ingersoll has made in his lifetime."

Circuit Court.

January term of the Montgomery Circuit court began yesterday. Judge John E. Cooper empanelled and charged the grand jury and then adjourned court till this morning. The grand jury is as follows:

John P. Games, Foreman; Frank A. Blount; George Humphries; Harry Campbell, sr.; W. R. Dean; J. I. Robinson; James Reid; Fred Senior; James Donovan; James Kash; John Baker, and John M. Steele.

Mr. George D. of Harrodsburg, suicated last Saturday because he had been sued for $250. He was amply able to meet his obligations but the humiliation caused him to take his life. His wife found him hanging in the barn and held him up while the baby boy bought a knife with which to cut the unfortunate father down.

DEDICATION

Of the Improved House of Worship

Of the Baptist Church of this City.

Sunday, January 19, was a day of rejoicing for the Baptist church of this city. After more than four months of patient, and some impatient waiting, the Baptists moved into their beautiful new home last Sunday. All that is left or the old house, are the walls, the floor and the rafters. The old house has been re-roofed, the window openings have been filled with handsome artistic and memorial windows, the walls have been beautifully decorated with solid tint paper with fresco borders, the floor is covered with a new and tasteful carpet. In addition to this a room, the same width as the old one, has been added to the rear to the extent of 30 feet. A roller-shutter partition, and curtains cut off the new and old room when desired. The entire building is furnished with circular oak pews from the Grand Rapids School Furniture Company, which are agreed to be comfortable as they are handsome. The church is furnished and decorated throughout in oak and blue. The pews, pulpit, pulpit-set, roller-shutter, choir railing behind the pulpit, the prevailing tint in the windows are oak, while the wall decorations, bordering on the windows, the drapery, both of main openings between the two rooms, and choir railing are in steel blue; and the carpet is of dark blue back-ground, with oak figure. The improvement is so made that there are practically three rooms in the building. The roller-shutter may be pulled down and the back room used for Sunday School, prayer meeting and young people's society. The front room for regular Sunday service, and both thrown together for larger occasions. This is accomplished by putting the double pulpit on the side, thus throwing the single pul-

Drake, before the sermon, made the statement that the Improvement had cost about three thousand dollars and all was provided for but five hundred dollars. This sum was soon raised after the sermon, and the church goes forward without debt.

The musical program, well rendered by the choir, was enjoyed by all, the special features of which were vocal solo "Abide With Me," by Mrs. J. M. Pickrell; organ voluntary by Mrs. R. Q. Drake, and anthems by the choir.

Afternoon service was held at 3:30 o'clock, in which Rev. C. J. Nugent of the Methodist church, Mr. Robert Marshall, of the Southern Presbyterian Church, and Rev. H. D. Clark, of the Christian Church, took part.

The evening service was largely attended. Rev. Mr. Clark courteously dismissed his congregation and attended in person to hear the sermon by Rev. B. B. Bailey, of Winchester, Ky. Mr. Bailey has come to hold a protracted meeting with the Baptist church, and we predict large usefulness will be rendered the cause of religion by him during his stay. He is described by a friend as "a very little man with a very big voice," and we may add big head and heart.

Mr. Bailey is gifted as a speaker, earnest and eloquent.

Thus closed one of the happiest and best days for the Baptist here. The Improvement Company, the ladies and membership in general, are to be congratulated on the successful completion of so beautiful a church in our town.

From now on until further notice a protracted meeting will be in progress at this church and to these services the public is cordially invited.

Benefit of a Popular Loan

One of the greatest incident effects, in fact the really great effect, which will be produced by placing one hundred million dollars of bonds among the people of the United States, particularly at 3 per cent, will be that this issue will represent an investment of the savings of the people.

It will make the Government the savings bank of the masses.

This has been done in France as the result of the traditional and uniform policy of issuing loans by popular subscription. It has been done in England by the issuing of consols and the establishment of postal savings banks.

It will go far to remove the intense prejudice which exists against bond-holders as a class. Nobody now holds bonds in this country except the very rich, the capitalists, the banks and the moneyed corporations.

It will have a most beneficial effect in favor of sound money and of sound ideas on the money question. A subscription of $100 apiece from 100,000 citizens would amount to $10,000,000. This would give 100,000 citizens a direct interest in the sound management of the finances of the country and in the ultimate payment of the bonds in the best currency, in the only currency in which our bonds have been paid—in gold.

Such a popular issue would do more to wipe out the prejudice against the moneyed classes than any other one thing.

One reason why the Government of France has always enjoyed such extraordinary credit is that the bonds of the Government, the French rentes, are held by the people. Frequent revolutions, constant changes in the government, have never affected that credit. No change of government affects the basis of the national credit. No new government attacks the system on which it rests.

The bond bill in the Senate should be so amended as to provide for offering the bonds at par at 3 per cent, and promptly passed.

The people will subscribe to a plain proposition like this when they would not bid with the complications of premiums.—N. Y. World.

SHOT DEAD.

Nathan Kennedy the Victim of a Stray Bullet.

Shot Down in His Own Home During a Quarrel

Between Two Tough Citizens.

On Thursday night a country dance was in progress at the home of Nathan Kennedy, a quiet, peaceable citizen living on the southern edge of this county near Salem Church. Among those who had gathered there were Levi Alfrey and George Bolling, two young men from the same neighborhood. As the evening progressed these two young aspirants for a high rank in toughdom, engaged in a quarrel. It was not long till they must needs draw their weapons and a man's life be sacrificed to their wanton disregard of all law and the common decencies of life.

Alfrey claims that Bolling was advancing on him with an uplifted knife, and that he (Alfrey) ran from his assailant till he saw that escape was impossible, and that only then he pulled his gun and turned on Bolling, who was so near him that he knocked the weapon aside, when it was discharged, the bullet striking Kennedy in the breast.

Bolling puts up the claim that Alfrey drew his gun and that he (Bolling) attempted to run till he saw Alfrey would kill him, and only then did he turn on his assailant who fired on him at such close range as to powder-burn his arm, the ball killing Mr. Kennedy.

Of course neither of these young toughs will acknowledge he is in anyway in fault. The case was remanded to the grand jury for an investigation.

Such reckless disregard for human life, and the cheap rate at which it is held by the lawless classes in that section of the country, needs a severe check. The mauldin sentiment that would turn the ruffian murderer loose on the community to add to his record of blood, should find no place in the minds of jurors sworn to do their duty. The Court will instruct in the law, and if jurors will exhibit the moral courage to enforce that law, better order will prevail.

It is for the people to decide whether such dastardly scoundrels were to be the house of a poor man in that neighborhood, and during the absence of the father and mother, perpetrated upon an eight-year-old child an outrage that would bring a blush to the cheek of the arch-fiend himself. A healthy execution of the law will teach such toughs a salutary lesson.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations adopted a resolution making a strong affirmation of the Monroe doctrine. In view of the report that the controversy between Great Britain and Venezuela may be settled by compromise, or for a money consideration, special interest attaches to the statement of the resolution that in case boundary disputes on the American continent between foreign Governments and American Governments are decided by arbitration, agreement, purchases, or in any way whatever, the United States shall be the sole judge as to whether the Monroe doctrine has been violated in such arbitration or agreement.

Good feeders brought as high as $4 per cwt.; good yearlings $3.40—heifers from $2.35 to $2.75; cows and steers $2 to $2.50. The mule market was brisk, there were several buyers on the market. There are four memorial windows—one in memory of Dr. Benjamin Prall Drake, put in by his son, Dr. R. Q. Pike Powers, who organized this church twenty-six years ago next month, and who now resides in Knoxville, Tenn. This was presented by the Young People's Union. The ladies of the church are to be congratulated on the exquisite taste shown in the selection and arrangement of the furnishings and decorations. Especially does the young lady who arranged the drapery so very artificially deserve highest compliments. You will know her name if you need this closely. The walls were decorated by the skillful hand of our fellow-townsman, Millard Haininge. The pews were put up under the direction of the cabinet workman of the city, and member of the Baptist church, Mr. C. B. Fizer.

The dedicatory services were held on last Sunday. The large auditorium was filled by the many friends and members of the church.—Dr. F. H. Kerfoot, professor of Theology in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Louisville, preached the sermon and offered the dedicatory prayer. The sermon was admitted by all to be one of the greatest ever delivered in our city. The Chairman of the Improvement Committee, Dr. R. Q.

There is said to be a "walking bartender" in the Wall-street district, of New York, who carries around a raw wood case, containing some extra choice spirits of various kinds, and a bottle or so of bitters, and the other ingredients which go to form the most famous of all American libations. He follows a regular route, and only calls on regular customers, and the rumor has it he is doing exceedingly well.

Fifty thousand Belgian dogs are employed in dragging small carts about the streets. They are said to have greater pulling power than any other animal, being able easily to pull four times their weight. They are often overfed and cruelly treated, and an effort is being made to improve their condition by passing laws punishing the use of the whip and kicking, prohibiting the employment of dogs under twenty-two inches shoulder height, and compelling the use of such harness and shafts as will allow the animals to lie down for rest.

The little village of Lambert, near Hawesville, has a social sensation of large dimensions. A young farmer named Harrison Shadricks was engaged to Miss Julia Clements and the day of the wedding was announced. When the time rolled around everything was in readiness for the ceremony. The prospective bride, with her parents, left home elegantly apparelled to meet the groom-to-be and his party at the church door. She arrived on time, but the bridegroom failed to appear. The organist waited in vain for a signal to play the wedding march. When due allowances had been made for all delay and they partially realized that Mr. Shadricks wasn't coming, the congregation was dismaying. Miss Clements fainted, and her father armed himself with a shotgun and went in search of the missing link to the matrimonial chain that had promised to be wedded under such favorable auspices. He did not find Shadricks. The recreant woor poorly foreseen that the best way to avoid trouble was to put several miles of daylight between himself and the angry father. At any rate, he bought a ticket that morning for Cairo, Ill., and is now in that city, provided he hasn't thought it necessary to get even farther away from Papa's Clements' shotgun. Meantime the young lady is nearly distracted with grief and the weddng that failed is being discussed by the entire village, to the utter exclusion of all other topics.

DISSOLVED.

The Much Talked of Bond Syndicate.

GOES OUT OF EXISTENCE.

The Popular Loan a Success.

New York, Jan. 15.—The bond syndicate has been dissolved.

Members of the Government bond syndicate received in their mail this morning a circular letter from J. P. Morgan & Co. releasing them from their commitment to furnish their pro rata of $100,000,000 in gold and a second $100,000,000 if desirable, taking their payment thereon in a 4 per cent. Government bond.

Accompanying this letter was a circular explaining why the syndicate was formed, what action was taken on its behalf, and it is now dissolved.

"On the 23d of December," Mr. Morgan says, "I was invited to Washington to conference. During my visit there no negotiations for a loan were even suggested, nor was there, then, or since, any agreement, or request, that I should take any steps preparatory to making a contract. I came, however, to the conclusion that the President and Secretary of the Treasury would use every power at their command to restore and maintain the gold reserve; that no step would be taken until it was ascertained what Congress would do; that the executive department would prefer to secure $200,000,000 of gold, and that it was certain that no relief could be obtained from Congress.

"Upon my return, appreciating the gravity of the situation, and in order that I might be prepared to act promptly, I took steps to ascertain to what extent it would be possible to secure the co-operation of capitalists in forming a syndicate which would agree to sell to the United States Government $200,000,000 of gold coin. The contract prepared and signed by the participants did not stipulate for smaller amounts.—Louisville Times.

seen to present for consideration of the Secretary of the Treasury the throwing out of smaller bids made in good faith under the public seal.

The only emergency, in Mr. Morgan's judgment, which would justify such a course would be the failure of the public to respond to the call of the Government.

It has been necessary to delay the dissolving of the syndicate up to the present time as every financial interest required protection afforded by the knowledge that the syndicate was in existence prepared to make the loan a success under any circumstances. The circular concludes:

"I feel perfectly satisfied that there is no question as to the success of the loan."

VERDICT FOR $12,000

AWARDED Mrs. Prewitt For Death of Her Husband.

Mrs. Margaret A. Prewitt, of Clark county, late yesterday afternoon obtained a verdict in the Common Pleas Court for $12,000 damages against the Union Warehouse Company, of this city. Her husband attended the sale of tobacco at defendants place and fell through an elevator shaft and was killed. Mrs. Prewitt twice before obtained judgments for smaller amounts.—Louisville Times.

Trouble with Popular Loans.

The trouble with popular loans is that they are not popular. They are a fad of some politicians and a few newspapers. They have been tried with most indifferent success. The reason why they succeed in France and do not succeed here is that the habits of the people regarding money are radically unlike. The French people use bank but little, and keep the specie or notes that they receive in a bureau drawer or some more occult place on their premises. This is the reason that the per capita volume of money in France is larger here or in other countries; the peasant and the small tradesman hoard currency, and there must be currency kept in circulation. The habit of hoarding is the reason that there is always in possession of the French people a large sum of ready money awaiting investment in land or Government securities. Land comes into the market slowly, and when the Government offers a loan the money comes out of its hiding places and is transferred to the Government. An additional reason for the popularity of Government loans is that the rate of interest is relatively high; the Government securities are held by so many voters that no ministry dares to make much of a cut in the rate of interest. The situation here and the habits of the people are radically different. Here there are abundant opportunities for investment, and the people are universally accustomed to put their spare money into savings banks and building associations or to invest it directly in securities if their own business does not afford an opportunity. Government loans pay what money is really worth, and the security being ample the rate is low and not very tempting. As nearly every man has investments all the money he can command the money for a Government loan cannot be procured except by selling other things; this cannot be effected on a large scale without loss and the return on Government bonds is not great enough to entice an inducement.—New York Tribune.

"The only provision to the important one that no gold should be withdrawn from the Treasury, was that the minimum amount of the contract should be $100,000,000, the maximum not over $200,000,000. The applications far exceed my expectations. At the end of three or four days the total of $200,000,000 was reached, and I had full authority which would enable me whenever and however the executive might decide to act to secure that amount of gold for the Treasury to exchange for United States bonds.

"The participants may be divided into four classes: People in Europe who were prepared to ship gold to this side; institutions in the United States in possession of gold coin who wanted bonds either for investment or as a basis for national bank circulations; third, banks in various cities who were willing to exchange their gold for bonds, expecting afterwards to sell them in the market; fourth, institutions and firms not having gold but which would give it at whatever cost, provided the contract was put in force. Participants were about equally divided between the four classes.

"Having completed the syndicate, I entered into negotiations in Europe and in places other than London where the market was closed to us, and through the Deutsch Bank and Messrs. Morgan Hargreaves & Co., negotiations were practically concluded for public subscriptions in Germany, France and Holland, which would have resulted in a large amount of bonds being placed in those countries.

"On January 4th, realizing that the tension was growing daily and had become serious, I addressed a letter to the President, calling his attention to the situation and representing that the most important step was the restoration of the Government credit by replenishing the stock of gold.

Details of what was proposed were given and assurances offered that the utmost efforts would be made to procure for the Treasury 11,500,000 ounces of gold.

The reason given for the dissolution of the syndicate is that the syndicate contract called for a bid "all or none," and therefore Mr. Morgan was unwilling to make a bid under the present circumstances, as he might

THE ELECTRIC RAILROAD.

Hon. John P. Martin, the well known Xenia, O., water-works and electric light contractor and builder, was at the Grand Hotel, Cincinnati, Wednesday afternoon en route to his home from Mt. Sterling, Ky., where he has a big contract underway.

It will be with pleasure that his many friends learn that he has found a good thing down at Mt. Sterling. He goes direct from Xenia to New York City to confer with a body of Eastern capitalists who are interested financially in enterprises at that place. He erected a water-works plant at Winchester, Ky., a couple of years ago, and led the Mt. Sterling people to take an interest in a similar improvement. The water-works and electric light plants are in full operation, but the people want an electric line of road out from Mt. Sterling to Sharpsburg, a small place some twelve miles away. Mt. Sterling is a distributing center for a large area of country. It is the most important little city so near the rim of mountains that lie back in Kentucky of the Cincinnati Southern Railroad. Some fifty miles east of Mt. Sterling there are thousands of acres of timber land underneath of which lie valuable coal fields.

"I think that the future of Mt. Sterling and the coal fields near is something not dreamed of as yet," said Mr. Martin. "I am not exactly an enthusiast over the situation, but in looking over the situation I see a great deal. The proposed electric railway will be of standard gauge, and intended to carry the Cincinnati Southern cars from Mt. Sterling over to Sharpsburg. From there the coal and other shipments will be distributed to a large section of the country now reached by wagons. There is a turnpike paralleling the proposed line of road, and the tolls, for a double team are upwards of one dollar each way. We will use a special motor power for hauling the coal and freight cars out from Mt. Sterling. Any car of the Cincinnati Southern line will be hauled. The road is a very bad one, and there is plenty of capital back of the movement. The citizens were anxious for the electric line several months ago, but I took up the water-works and the electric light plant scheme first. Now that these enterprises are completed, the railway is assured. Some forty miles east of Mt. Sterling there is a tract of thirty-five thousand acres of timber and that was acquired forty years ago by a syndicate up in Maine. The price paid for the land was ten dollars per acre, but a shrewd manager made some money, and now the land is on the market. This land has never been broken up by the axeman, although the timber surrounding it has been removed. For this reason the property is all the more valuable. Connected with it are coal fields which are seemingly inexhaustible."

Mr. Martin thinks that Mt. Sterling in the future will become a great central supply station for large sections of Kentucky. He says there are eight or nine large mills in the valley of Mt. Sterling, and almost as many big jobbing houses. Beyond Mt. Sterling or at least fifteen miles away, the mountains and the uncultivated and very undeveloped section of the Bourbon State offer great inducements to capitalists. Mt. Sterling is near the border of the Blue Grass region—in fact, is the county seat of the last county, thus making it the dividing line between the rich blue grass fields and the mountainous timber covered coal fields. The syndicate of Eastern gentlemen is willing to invest large sums of money if there are any chances of realization. There is now a short railroad running some thirty miles toward the timber lands east of Mt. Sterling. By building about as many more miles the heart of the timber district can be easily reached. Mr. Martin says that the natural outlet of

WARNED BY DREAMS.

Takes Out Accident Insurance and Meets With Injury.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 15.—Sunday night W. A. Gentry dreamed that he was run over by an electric car. Monday night he dreamed that he was the victim of a cable car accident. The successive dreams so impressed him that he bought two accident tickets for $5,000 each, good for a day and made application in a regular accident agency for a policy of $25 a week accident indemnity and $2,500 in case of death by accident.

This policy had to go to New York for approval, and to cover the day he this morning took two more $5,000 one day tickets. At 4 o'clock this afternoon Mr. Gentry stepped on an icy crossing and fell prone upon the tracks, his left arm directly under a heavy coal cart wheel. He is at the City Hospital, where it is the opinion of the surgeons that amputation will be necessary. Mr. Gentry is a nephew of the late United States Senator Kenna of West Virginia. His home is in Charleston, that State. He is at present in business in Cincinnati.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 14.—The Standing Committee, before whom the charges against Bishop-elect Williams of the new Marquette diocese, will come, meets here on Thursday. The charges are in the possession of the Rev. Campbell Fair. They include the charge that Williams made large contributions to the diocesan fund, funded on his own election, and that many delegates voted for him, fearing that otherwise the fund of $25,000 would fail, and the plan of a new diocese collapse. It is not denied that Dr. Williams was a large contributor. He is very wealthy.

Its aim is to make a stable title with stability to purchasers and mortgagees, to protect trust estates and beneficiaries, and to facilitate the quieting of titles.

A Baby's Life Saved.

"My baby had croup and was saved by Shiloh's Cure," writes Mrs. J. B. Martin, of Huntsville, Ala. For sale by Thomas Kennedy.

Nineteen warrants have been issued by the County Judge of Crittenden, charging as many citizens of the western and northern portions of the State with white-capping. Several of the men implicated belong to prominent families. The warrants are the result of recent whitecap disturbances and warnings, which the good people are tired of.

The Richmond Paragraph says: "Several carloads of walnut logs are being fanned at the L. and N. depot, to be shipped to Baltimore, thence to Germany. The bark is cut off and the logs squared with broad-axes, and then shaved smooth" with drawing-knives before shipping, so that all the dead surplus weight may be removed, thus saving much freight. These logs were gathered up in this country under the direction of T. Bradley, of Georgetown, who represents a New York lumber export firm. He has bought many carloads of this kind of timber in Central Kentucky and left thousands of dollars instead. Walnut trees are becoming scarce and what few are left realize handsome returns to the owners."

MORE DANGEROUS
Lake Navigation is Beset by Many Perils To Which the Sea is Stranger.

Sailing the great lakes with the low stage of water during the season just closed has been a combination of Mississippi river steamboating and Atlantic navigation—worse than that, for the river captain has no such dangerous places to run as the Soo river, with its jagged rocks, where masters are forced to pick their way over courses marked by ranges amid swift currents, and frequently in crowds of boats like a naval display, says the Buffalo Courier. As a river pilot the commander of a lake vessel has before him in passing through the narrow and crooked channels connecting the great lakes problems which would drive his brother on the Mississippi out of his mind. Past these he enters an open sea, frequently swept by storms, which try to the uttermost the strength of his craft. Then the task before him has features which the ocean navigator generally escapes. The latter has sea room. He can run before the storm for perhaps hundreds of miles, or, heaving to, let his boat drift for days at a time. The lakes, while large enough to produce tremendous seas, are really so small that in big storms vessels have little sea room. Once in a gale, they are practically on a lee shore, and must fight it out without rudding if unable to gain shelter of the shore to windward.

It is due to this union of river and ocean navigation that losses on the lakes reach so high a figure. This is particularly true since the coming of steel boats. The founding of the steamers Western Reserve and W. H. Gilcher in the fall of 1892 proved conclusively that steel boats had to be built as heavy and as strong on the lakes as on the Atlantic. Every steel vessel launched since then would pass easily the critical inspection of the ocean underwriters. But this very solidity units them for the river part of lake navigation. When they touch a rock something must give way, and when something gives way the cost of repairs is far heavier than it would be were it not for the complicated net work of angles and frames which give strength to the double bottom. The past season millions of tons of freight have been carried on steel boats which, in the shallower parts of the connecting rivers, were within a few inches of the bottom. Now and then something went amiss, and a big repair bill followed.—Louisville Times.

The Up-to-Date Girl.

The real up-to-date girl is a strange combination. She must be versatile as a lawyer, as witty as a professional humorist and as deceptively as the slight-of-hand performer. With all of these qualities she might as well retire to a nursery, or some other place of seclusion, for she will not be in with her more fortunate sisters.

The scientific theory, which is an optimistic one, that everything is gradually evolving to a better end, has a good example in the girls of to-day. They have a keener sense of humor, so it is said, than girls had formerly, and certainly know more about the ways of the world. She knows how to distinguish the vulgar from the real, pure wit, and she never fails to take advantage of an opportunity that might in any way cause her stock to rise.

The Gossiper saw a real up-to-date girl the other night at the theatre. She is one of the kind that is strictly in it. "Hamlet" was being played. All the players, that is, all the men wore tights, but those worn by Polonius were a little worn for wear. One of them maintained a hole near the right ankle. The young lady observed this as soon as he came upon the stage. Her companion saw it, too, but refrained from commenting about it. But the girl, alas, thought it was too funny to keep, and leaving over a little whispered in her escort's ear loud enough to be heard by those sitting near "If mamma had known of that hole she would not have allowed me to have come with you."—Louisville Post.

REMARKABLE LIGHT.

A Viennese Professor Discovers An Agent For Scientific Photography.

A dispatch from London says: The noise of war's alarms should not distract attention from the marvelous triumph of science which is reported from Vienna. It is announced that Prof. Routenau, of the Wurzburg University, has discovered a light which, for the purpose of photography will penetrate wood, flesh and most other organic substances. The professor has succeeded in photographing metal weights which were in close wooden cases, also a man's hand, which shows only the bones, the flesh being invisible.

The correspondent says that the discovery is simple. The professor takes so-called crooked pipe, viz., a vacuum glass pipe with an induction current going through it and by means of rays which the pipe enters photographs on ordinary photographic plates.

In contrast with the ordinary rays of light these rays penetrate organic matter and other opaque substances just as ordinary rays penetrate glass. He has also succeeded in photographing hidden metals with a cloth thrown over the camera. The rays penetrated not only the wooden case containing the metals, but the fabric in front of the negative.

The professor is already using his discovery to discover broken limbs and bullets in human bodies.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas, of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctor she had Consumption and that there was no hope for her, but Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she says it saved her life. Mr. Thos Eggers, 139 Florida St. San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else than bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results of which these samples are, that prove the wonderful efficacy of this medicine in Coughs and Colds. Free trial bottles at W. S. Lloyd's Drug store. Regular size 50 c. & $1.00.

Tuesday, January 21, 1896.

Ex-President Harrison has confirmed the reports that he and Mrs. Dimick are to be married. The wedding will not take place until after Lent.

Louisville lost its Democratic Mayor by reason of death the past week. The Democratic Sheriff neglected to renew his bond in the time prescribed by law and therefore lost his office. The Republicans have almost all the offices in Jefferson county in their hands.

England's sober second thought on the Venezuelan affair, like our own, is wholly commendable. It has got the ships, it has got the men, and got the money too, but it is getting ready to arbitrate.—N. Y. World.

Speaker Reed is said to have informed the Chairman of the Committee on Territories that he does not wish a favorable report at this session on the bill to admit Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma into the Union. He does not want the Republicans held responsible for any increase of silver men in Congress.

The Spanish Government has appointed Gen. Valdizano Weyler to take charge of affairs in Cuba. He is expected to arrive at Havana shortly to assume the duties of Governor General. The Cubans in this country believe that Gen. Weyler's appointment means a reign of terror.

The Government could afford to pay ten millions of dollars as the best investment it ever made for sound money, sound finance and sound ideas generally, to place the new issue of $100,000,000 in bonds in the hands of 500,000 people in all parts of the country. It is the conservatism of the masses, that is the mainstay of popular government.—New York World.

The Republican State Executive Committee of Alabama has been called to meet at Birmingham Thursday, the date of the meeting of the Populist Committee. It is expected that the two committees will agree to call conventions at the same time and place and name a joint State ticket. The McKinley people do not like the call, and say Mr. Reed's supporters are attempting to take advantage of them.

Mr. Watterson while in New York last week, took occasion to say that there was no doubt "whatever in his mind that there had been a conspiracy to force the Government to sell its bonds far below their value, and that the leaders in the plot had some very influential friends."

Mr. Watterson expressed his intense satisfaction that the conspiracy had been detected and foiled, and he paid a high tribute to The World for smashing the gold ring. He pointed out to The World correspondent's informant that there was a great discrepancy between Mr. Morgan's forecast and the ring. It was evident, according to Mr. Watterson, that all the facts had not yet been made clear. Mr. Watterson thought that further explanations were very desirable.—N. Y. World.

The citizens of Mt. Sterling would be proud of a good, convenient and stately city building with a spacious council chamber and court room, with a safe place for the city and court records. Such quarters are necessary. Of course the city should have an eye to business in the construction of such a building. Mt. Sterling is a city with proportions that would support a market house, and if the first floor was given to such space and stalls were offered at a price so the country people could afford to occupy them two or three times per week with their products, the investment could be made to realize a revenue; but to consider the construction of a building with the first room as a place to keep the fire engines, in face of the fact that the city will shortly have water works, would be worse than foolishness, and the committee in making their report should consider the future of the city as well as the present.

THE KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

What Is Being Done in the Senatorial Muddle.

The almost even division, on joint ballot of the two houses of the General Assembly, between Democrats and Republicans has been cause for much political trigger-setting at Frankfort the past week. Each party has been doing its utmost to catch the other napping.

The Democrats have nominated for U. S. Senator to succeed himself, Hon. Jo. C. S. Blackburn, but he did not receive the full vote of his party in the caucus and it is doubtful if, under any circumstances, he can secure that vote. The Republican caucus nominated Hon. W. Godfrey Hunter, but it is a significant fact that he was not able to get his full party vote. Neither of the gentlemen named, even if he could secure the united support of his party members in the General Assembly, could be elected without the aid of the Populists, who hold two seats in the lower house. To still further complicate matters, Mr. Wilson (Democrat) Representative from Nelson county died.

The Republican Speaker, Blanford, issued the writ of election so that the successor of Mr. Wilson could not be seated till several days after the Legislature was to meet in joint session for the purpose of electing a U. S. Senator. The Republicans went further and threatened to unseat several Democrats in the Lower House. The Democrats promptly went to work in the Senate to make preparations to unseat certain State Senators. They further introduced and passed such rules in the Senate as makes it possible for them to get rid of a Senator at a moment's notice.

More than this they have so befuddled the presiding officer (Lieutenant-Governor Worthington) that he is made to appear to agree to the somewhat notorious "Rule 85," which allows the Senate to take immediate and effective action on an objectionable Senator's case without any sort of delay.

The joint session to take a ballot is set for to-day.

RUMORS OF WAR.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of yesterday prints dispatches from Florida, that say the State troops of that State and of some others have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to be called into the field. The story in circulation is that Great Britain is about to purchase Cuba and that your It is said the destination of England's much-picked of flying squadrons is the American waters. Uncle Samuel will put in an objection. There is likely little truth in the rumors.

Hon. John P. Salter has introduced Senate Bill No 1 in the Senate the title of which is "An act concerning land titles and the registration thereof." The object of this act is to set at rest doubtful titles in Kentucky; stop endless litigation, and restore to land purchasers confidence in land titles, thereby involving capital to our State. Such an act is the part of wisdom and would be of great worth to the Commonwealth. At this time we are when a purchases lands, in many sections it is with the belief that a law suit goes with it. Let us have perfect titles.

The advocates of making a pension a "vested right" will bring in a separate bill to effect, having been prevented from adding such an amendment to the Pension Appropriation Bill.

On the ground that another day of the session could not be lost the Virginia House of Delegates voted down a resolution to adjourn in honor of Gen. Robert E. Lee's birthday, which falls on Sunday, but was to be observed the following day.

The Senate will not concur in the nomination of J. W. Postle, colored, to be steward of the Western Insane Asylum at Hopkinsville. It is said that Gov. Bradley did not know Postle was a saloon-keeper when he made the appointment.

The Treasury lost $59,000 in gold bars and coin, Saturday which leaves the gold reserve at $53,642,168.

Checks and the per Capita.

The hardest thing to beat into the heads of free-silver advocates is the understanding that the prosperity of the country does not depend upon the volume of currency. To use the expressive language of a Populist financier, they believe that to double the amount of money is to halve the debts and to halve the money is to double the debts. As they do not care to reason, no form of argument appeals to them with such force as these concrete illustrations; hence their association of the idea of an increased amount of currency with an increase of their prospective holdings of such currency. It was because of this lack of logical power that "John Harvey's citation of the cube of which represents all the gold money of the world, when contrasted with the dazzling mountains of silver, seemed an irrefutable argument in favor of the cheaper metal. Likewise because the per capita of the Frenchman is about $37 and the per capita of the American is only about $23 they conclude the cause of the latter's financial troubles is the comparative scarcity of his circulating medium.

As a matter of fact, we have an over-abundance of money, though it is not all of the best quality. We use checks and other forms of credit instruments to an extent undreamed of in France, and this enormously multiplies the per capita, though no Populist thinks of arguing that it reduces his debts. To show how small is the real volume of money with which the immense business of this country is transacted is worth while to consider a few remarks from the speech of Mr. J. Edward Simmons, President of the Fourth National Bank of New York, upon the occasion of the dedication of the new Clearing-house building there last Wednesday. In the course of his speech Mr. Simmons said:

"In connection with the currency, let us consider briefly the business of the New York Clearing-house during the forty-two years of its existence. The total transactions from October, 1853, to October, 1895, amount in all to the sum of $1,029,215,818,055, a sum sufficient, if coined into half-eagles, laid flat so as to touch each other, to make a golden pathway ten feet wide around the world. The balances were little more than 44 per cent. of the clearings, and even these balances were discharged, not in currency, but principally by certificates on a common depository. Take, for instance, the balances for the year 1883. One-half of 1 per cent. of the entire earnings, was paid in legal tenders and coin. Not long ago, when the exchanges averaged $113,019,011 daily, the checks and drafts presented by the several banks so nearly offset each other that of every $100 of the balances all but $4.78 were paid in checks. What do these figures proclaim? They tell us how insignificant a role currency—I care not whether it be gold, silver or legal tender notes—plays in the great mass of business represented by our clearings."

"Owing to the progress made by our system of clearings, I can truly say that in no country is a business so immense transacted with an amount of the precious metals so surprisingly small. At least 90 per cent. of all the business of this country is a credit business done by checks, drafts, bills of exchange, and other commercial instruments. Every step in advance made in our system of exchanges reduces the importance of currency. Already our progress has given to $1 the power to do the work done by $100 at the beginning of the century. The currency of a country need not equal its wealth nor the volume of its mercantile transactions. The figures denoting the exchanges of the American clearing-houses amounted in 1888 to over $30,000,000,000—thirty times all the gold and silver and bank notes then in the country. Therefore, notwithstanding the abundance of the currency—depends our country's business prosperity. No legislation and no financial juggling can make a country pro-pecunious; only industry, economy, thrift and self-denial can effect this result."

Here is a concrete illustration good enough to be incorporated in "Coin," only it would not serve that financier's purpose. It will of course, be answered by the statement that farmers do not possess clearing-houses, but its logic is unsatisfactory. New York is the clearing-house of this part of the world, and there eventually are settled the accounts of farmers and bankers, and what affects one, or is suitable for one, affects all and is good enough for all.—Courier-Journal

Ex-President Harrison has confirmed the reports that he and Mrs. Dimick are to be married. The wedding will not take place until after Lent.

Louisville lost its Democratic Mayor by reason of death the past week. The Democratic Sheriff neglected to rescue his man in the time prescribed by law and therefore lost his office. The Republicans have almost all the offices in Jefferson county in their hands.

England's sober second thought on the Venezuelan affair, like our own, is wholly commendable. It has got the ships, it has got the men, and got the money too, but it is getting ready to arbitrate.—N.Y. World.

Speaker Reed is said to have informed the Chairman of the Committee on Territories that he does not wish a favorable report at this session on the bill to admit Arizona, New Mexico and Oklahoma into the Union. He does not want the Republican party held responsible for any increase of silver men in Congress.

The Spanish Government has appointed Gen. Valdizano Weyler to take charge of affairs in Cuba. He is expected to arrive at Havana shortly to assume the duties of Governor General. The Cubans in this country believe that Gen. Weyler's appointment means a return of terror.

The Government could afford to pay ten millions of dollars as the best investment it ever made for sound money, sound finance and sound ideas generally; to place the new issue of $100,000,000 in bonds in the hands of 500,000 people in all parts of the country. It is the conservatism of the masses, not the selfishness of the classes, that is the mainstay of popular government.—New York World.

The Republican State Executive Committee of Alabama has been called to meet at Birmingham Thursday, the date of the meeting of the Populist Committee. It is expected that the two committees will agree to call conventions at the same time and place and name a joint State ticket. The McKinley people do not like the call, and say Mr. Reed's supporters are attempting to take advantage of them.

Mr. Watterson while in New York last week, took occasion to say that there was no doubt whatever in his mind that there had been a conspiracy to force the Government to sell its bonds far below their value, and that the leaders in the plot had some very influential friends.

Mr. Watterson expressed his intense satisfaction that the conspiracy had been detected and foiled, and he paid a high tribute to The World for smashing the gold ring. He pointed out to The World correspondent's informant that there was a great discrepancy between Mr. Morgan's farewell to the ring. It was evident, according to Mr. Watterson, that all the facts had not yet been made clear. Mr. Watterson thought that further explanations were very desirable.—N.Y. World.

The citizens of Mt. Sterling would be proud of a good, convenient and sightly city building with a spacious council chamber and court room, with a safe place for the city and court records. Such quarters are necessary. Of course the city should have an eye to business in the construction of such a building. Mt. Sterling is a city with proportions that would support a market house, and if the first floor was given to such space and stalls were offered at a price so the country people could afford to occupy them two or three times per week with their products, the investment could be made to realize a revenue; but to consider the construction of a building with the first room as a place to keep the fire engines, in face of the fact that the city will shortly have water works, would be worse than foolishness, and the committee in making their report should consider the future of the city as well as the present.

THE KENTUCKY LEGISLATURE.

What Is Being Done in the Senatorial Muddle.

The almost even division, on joint ballot of the two houses of the General Assembly, between Democrats and Republicans has been cause for much political trigger-setting at Frankfort the past week. Each party has been doing its utmost to catch the other napping.

The Democrats have nominated for U.S. Senator to succeed himself Hon. Jo. C. S. Blackburn, but he did not receive the full vote of his party in the caucus and it is doubtful if, under any circumstances, he can secure that vote. The Republican caucus nominated Hon. W. Godfrey Hunter, but it is a significant fact that he was not able to get his full party vote. Neither of the gentlemen named, even if he could secure the united support of his party members in the General Assembly, could be elected without the aid of the Populists, who hold two seats in the lower house. To still further complicate matters, Mr. Wilson (Democrat) Representative from Nelson county died. The Republican Speaker, Blanford, issued the writ of election so that the successor of Mr. Wilson could not be seated till several days after the Legislature was to meet in joint session for the purpose of electing a U.S. Senator. The Republicans went further and threatened to unseat several Democrats in the Lower House. The Democrats promptly went to work in the Senate to make preparations to unseat certain State Senators. They further introduced and passed such rules in the Senate as made it possible for them to get rid of a Senator at a moment's notice.

More than this they have so fulfilled the presiding officer (Lieutenant-Governor Worthington) that he is made to appear to agree to the somewhat notorious, if not famous, "Rule 85," which allows the Senate to take immediate and effective action on an objectionable Senator's case without any sort of delay.

The joint session to take a ballot is set for to-day.

Rumors of War.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of yesterday prints dispatches from Florida that say the State troops of that State and of some others have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to be called into the field. The story in circulation is that Great Britain is about to purchase Cuba and that your destination of England's much talked of flying squadron is the American waters. Uncle Samuel will put in an objection. There is likely little truth in the rumors.

Hon. John P. Salter has introduced Senate Bill No 1 in the Senate the title of which is "An act concerning land titles and the registration thereof."

The object of this act is to set at rest doubtful titles in Kentucky; stop endless litigation, and restore to land purchases confidence in land titles, thereby inviting capital to the State. Such an act is the part of wisdom and would be of great worth to the Commonwealth. As titles now are when a purchaser buys, in many sections it is with the belief that a law suit goes with it. Let us have perfect titles.

The advocates of making a pension a "vested right" will bring in a separate bill to that effect, having been prevented from adding such an amendment to the Pension Appropriation Bill.

On the ground that another day of the session could not be lost the Virginia House of Delegates voted down a resolution to adjourn in honor of Gen. Robert E. Lee's birthday, which falls on Sunday, but was to be observed the following day.

Sales on our market for the week just closed amounted to $737 hds. with receipts for the same period $343 hds.

Sales on our market since January 1, amount $582 hds. Sales of the crop of 1895 on our market to this date amount to 11,774 hds.

These sales were composed of 2340 hds. new burley; 131 hds. of old dark tobacco. The market

started off this week with decided inactivity and for new burley tobacco and prices have been uniformly better during the entire week than they were last week. The better grades of leaf have sold at figures ranging from $12 to $21.50 per hundred, and the medium grades have been taken at most satisfactory figures to sellers. One entire crop was sold during the week at an average above $14 per hundred round. The market recently has shown a very noticeable improvement for burley of grades that would class from low leaf medium up.

The following quotations fairly represent our market for burley tobacco 1895 crop.

Trash. (Dark or damaged tobacco) $1.00 to $1.50.

Common color trash, $2.00 to $4.00.

Medium to good color trash, $4.00 to $6.00.

Common lugs, not color, $2.00 to $4.00.

Common color lugs, $4.50 to $7.00.

Medium to good color lugs, $7.00 to $10.00.

Common to medium leaf $5.00 to $8.00.

Medium to good leaf, $8.00 to $15.

Good to fine leaf, $15 to $18.

Select wrapper leaf, $18 to $22.00.

The above quotations are not applicable to green and frosted crops.

C. E. NOTES.

The headquarters of the States are being assigned at Washington for the Convention of 1896.

The Christian Endeavor Society continues to increase in numbers. The official enrollment for the week ending January 4, 1896, is, societes, 43,112, with a membership of 2,586,720.

"A remarkable revival is in progress," says the Golden Rule, "at the State penitentiary at Indianapolis, an outcome of the work of the Christian Endeavor Society of the prison."

In Victoria, Australia, the different denominations have committees or officers to present annual reports upon the efficiency of their Christian Endeavor Societies, and to help generally in their formation and maintenance.

The Golden Rule now gives a year's subscription to the two best one hundred words of comments on the topic for each week's meetings. Those comments should send at once comments on the topic for March 1.

"What is Involved in Loyalty to Christ?" Luke 10: 23-37. Address "Open Meeting" Golden Rule, Boston, Mass.

One hundred and fourteen Presbyteries in the Presbyterian church report 3,327 societes, with a membership of 137,921. These report $30,000 contributed to Home and Foreign Missions. All but three of the one hundred and fourteen speak enthusiastically of the church loyalty and usefulness of these societies. It is very evident from this that the Presbyterian church will not adopt another society for the young people than the Christian Endeavor.

One hundred and eleven Presbyteries reporting enthusiasm in favor of Christian Endeavor.

One hundred and four Presbyteries report 2,327 societes, with a membership of 107,111. The influence has become unbearable. This crowd, many of whom are more than half drunken, race their horses back and forth over the streets in utter disregard of the safety of pedestrians. Only last Court Day we saw one drunken almost ride down a young lady on a crossing on Main street.

Blood Purifier

Before the people today, and which stands preeminent above all other medicines, is

HOOD'S Sarsaparilla

It has won its hold upon the hearts of the people by its own absolute intrinsic merit. It is not what we say, but what Hood's Sarsaparilla does that tells the story:

Hood's Cures

Even when all other preparations and prescriptions fail.

"It was taken with a pain in my right side which run down into my limbs and my ankles swelled and became cut in rank sores in a short time. I have been to several physicians. Since I have had Hood's Sarsaparilla the sores have healed and I have gained fifteen pounds in weight." JOHN HARRIS, Prestonsburg, Ky.

UNSATISFIED.

My rose in the sunshine gleams—
Yellow and red and pink and white.
Their days pass in a golden dream
Till, like the sun, they sink at night.
But, ah, my life long in the light,
I feel the kisses of the rain.

So can your rose my love my bride,
And when I dream it comes to me,
Yet is my soul unsatisfied.

For I have never seen you weep
Nor heard your voice when many
Of tears my lips might kiss away.

Life is no mask of frosty mirth;

Ever the smile forebodes the tear,

Care will always be all the worth

Know at your heart you will not hear?

Weep; smile; but keep our souls apart

And kill the thy in my heart.

—New York Tribune.

THE CAPTAIN'S STORY

Captain Harry Beaumont was a tall, handsome, middle aged man, who traveled for a leading Chicago firm. In response to a request for a story to while away the time as we traveled from Cincinnati to Chicago, he said: "As I'm going to stop off at my home this trip, I believe I'll tell you about my little Yankee prisoner. Let me see"—retrospectively.

"It was in November, 1863, when our brigade—the old Stonewall brigade—was lying below Winchester, Va., momentarily expecting an attack from the Federals. We were a ragged set of devils, I tell you. Half of the brigade was coatless and hundreds were shoeless, and all of us were hungry. One night I was put on guard in a little hollow facing the Yankee front. The glade was surrounded on three sides by low hills covered with underbrush, with an opening directly at my front of several hundred yards. Immediately surrounding my position there was a growth of low bushes, so thick that it seemed almost impossible for a man to penetrate it. In my rear all was clean of growth of any sort, so you can see that I was not likely to be surprised if I was captured if I kept my eyes open! Well, I had to stand there perhaps an hour when I heard a thrashing and crashing in the bushes at my left. It seemed to me so much like the sort of a racket that an old cow, tangled in the brush, would make, that I paid little attention to it until a heavier crash than common followed by 'Durn the Yanks!' in accents of annoyance, attracted my attention to a point about 30 feet away, and while looking, expecting to see the danged gray make believe uniform of one of my countrymen, I was astonished to see the blue uniform of a Yankee emerging from the brush.

"The fellow, who had not yet seen me, was little more than a boy (I was only 18 years old myself at the time), and a pale faced, fair haired boy at that. 'Halt! Drop that gun and stand where you are, Yank!' I ordered. I needn't have told him to drop his gun, for he was so much astonished that he did it involuntarily. Well, I'll tell you what a Johnny Bob-um you are! What are you doing here?" came five of the questions he rattled off in his surprise. 'Yes, I'm a Johnny Bob, Yank, and I'm on guard here,' said I as I advanced and picked up his gun. 'And you're my prisoner,' I added.

"That's just my luck," said he. "I might have known I would get lost in these blazed Virginia hills. I wouldn't give a ten acre farm on an Indian's prairie for ten miles square of the wilderness."

"Ought to have had staid there," said I. "But you won't get back soon, Yank, for you're bound for Libby prison in short order."

"Libby prison! Holy Moses, I hope not! But I say, Johnny, got any grub? I'm blamed near starved. I've wandered about trying to confiscate something to eat ever since 3 o'clock, and, to tell you the truth, I'm too hungry and tired to talk."

"That's nothing," said I. "I've gone three days without anything to eat, and I'm still here, I guess, on the ear. But I'll tell you what I'll do. I've got a hunk of corn bread in my grub bag over there under that little tree. You can have half of that."

"Thanks, Johnny. I'll do the same for you some day," coolly said the little Yank, and without any more ado off he hustled and got the grub.

"The fellow was hungry and no mistake. He lit into the chunk of corn bread with a vengeance, and while I stood looking at him and laughing at his efforts, to get a four-inch section of corn pone into a two inch month I'll be blamed if he didn't gobble down the whole mess, cramps and all. I saw it going, but I couldn't stop it to save me, and I don't really believe I would have done it if I could, hungry as I myself was."

"But you should have seen that Yank's face after he had got away with my ration. There rigger, said he, 'tis hard to gone and swallow when you're all the time I'd be in— and would have three or four days' time with nothing special to do. I told Watson that I could not reach him 50 days hence."

bough I was mad enough to give him a good licking my sense of the ridiculous preponderated, and I couldn't help laughing to save my life. The whole affair had been so confoundedly ridiculous that I hid down my gun and actually rolled over and over until my sides fairly ached.

"The little Yankee looked at me a half dozen times, and then the candle at side of the affair suddenly struck him, too, and the next minute both of us were laughing like schoolboys.

"When both of us had laughed until we were completely exhausted, we sat down together under the little tree and had a long talk. He belonged to an Indiana regiment and had been in the service about six months. He said his parents were living near Brownfield, Ind., on a prairie farm, and spoke of his father and mother in terms of the highest affection. He had a little sister—Jeanie—2 years old, whom I saw that boy fairly worshipped. There had been three other children, but they were all dead.

"Before the war I had a number of friends in Indiana, and I spoke of them, one or two of whom I found were known to my prisoner. Of course I told my story—of how, with 35 other schoolboys, I left school before I was 17 and had joined the Confederate army, and of the many miseries of the campaign which we made at that time but of the 35 left alive.

"Well, to make a long story short, we had not taken an hour before we felt that we had known each other a lifetime. It saddened me to think of that jolly, fun loving face in Libby or some other of our prisons, with their necessarily short fare and miserable quarters. Somehow I thought I could see that boy's mother appealing to me with her eyes to save her boy from prison.

"It may have been some hypnotic or clairvoyant form of the power of suggestion unknown to me, but however that may be, I determined to do the best I could to get my little Yankee out of trouble. I had come to this determination when the relief guard came up. The officer merely asked me where I got my prisoner, and when I told him, he ordered me to take him to camp and turn him over. Our fellows were allowed considerable license, and I took advantage of the fact by going back with my prisoner without any other escort. It was very late when I had to turn in, so I slipped out in escaping observation with my companion and getting into my tent.

"I suppose I'm a soner, Johnny," said my little Yank after we stretched out on a blanket.

"We'll see," said I. "Stay right here and don't move till I get back." And then I slipped out of the tent and managed to hook several pieces of corn bread, one of which I ate in short order. Then we lay down again and talked in a low tone of various topics. When it might be about 2 o'clock in the morning I again stood out, and after a little scrupulous maneuvering to get past session of an old gray hat and jacket. Then I crept into the tent, and after a sleepless night, I had him stand at the head of the steps, and as I advanced she placed her hands upon my shoulders, and bending forward kissed me on the forehead.

"Good bless you, my son!" said she, while the tears streamed down her cheeks. "I have prayed to see this day." The young woman pressed my hand gratefully, but my eyes were moist, and I could scarcely speak.

I remained that night, and it was difficult to get away even the next day, but business demanded my attention. I promised to visit my friends frequently, and did so every time I could get off a day. But thereupon I changed through misfortune, or by the benefice of gods immortal (flowers). The violet was lanthe, a favorite nymph of Artemis. Apollo fell in love with her, and the goddess, wishing to protect her favorite from apparently undesirable attentions, dyed her blue. Lanthe, however, preferred the annoyance attendant upon beauty to ugliness. She pined away, and Artemis, full of regret for her mistaken interference, changed her into a violet.

"Living in the Country.

The habit of living in the country, by the way, is based upon early life, as is shown by the many "commuters" as the people are called who live out of town and do business in the city.

"The "commuter," nine times out of ten, is a country born man. He is used to the inexperience of rural life, which to him are inconveniences. A city man who had to put up with what the countryman does would go crazy in a week. One never finds your real city man, born and bred in New York, who can ever be really happy in the country, even if the country is only a few miles away.

The electric light, theaters, street cars, elevated railroads and the like, always to be found in the city—the noise of its heating heat possibly; the noise of its busy life, at all events—make up his daily life. He gets to love the roar of a big city, and the country stillness would drive him mad in a week.—New York Journal.

A Remarkable Grotto.

Fingal's cave is one of the most remarkable natural grottoes in Europe. It is situated on the island of Staffa, about seven miles off the west coast of Mull, Scotland. The cavern is 227 feet deep, 42 feet wide at the entrance and 62 feet high at the opening at time of low tide. Tide has a great deal to do with the size and dimensions of Fingal's cave, because it is a cavity of a sea grotto.

The ocean's waters are always the deepest in the world. At the lowest tide there is 20 feet of water in the cave. It can be easily entered by means of small boats at all times except at the hour of extreme high tide. In Europe Fingal's cave is considered the greatest British wonder.—St. Louis Republic.

but would be able to do so just six weeks from that day.

"That will do nicely, captain; don't forget the date."

"I was not apt to do so, as Watson's 'big orders' meant big sales, and so it was agreed."

"On the appointed day I drove up to Watson's store, which I found full of people, among whom were many men who looked as if they might have been seasoned veterans at one time. I had shaken hands with Watson and one or two of his friends whom I recognized as confined to certain perfumes. Oh, people, it is said, may prolong their lives by mixing saffron and castor oil with their wines. Bacon mentions a man who fasted many days by surrounding himself with aromatic herbs. There are no less than 80 remedies which are attributed to rice to treat the sick. The number of the sick is 21 to the 100, and 17 to the violet. Nothing perfumes had air better than perfume, and, in my opinion, it is a great mistake therefore to decay scents and banish them from our homes and beds. They should not be considered as mere objects of luxury, but as a necessity to preserve us from illness.

Spices are also conducive to health, and it is a well known fact that after the Dutch spoiled the Spice Islands, the Chinese took over, which until then had been overrun with dreadful epidemics. Tradition declares that in India a man who had eaten of the root of "the elephant" was dead and smelt bad."

"No, I don't believe I ever saw you before, yet—as a smell lit up his face—"yet—there's something about you seems familiar."

" Didn't you think you would forget your Yankee prisoner—the one who eat up your grub down near Winchester in '63?"

"What?" I ejaculated, and then it all became clear. There was the same sunny smile, the same laughing face, but the man before me was almost middle aged, bearded and dressed in a suit of clothes which I had but a strippling of a boy. I forgot the years which had elapsed, but that all came to me in a flash, and there before me, 30 years after it had occurred, stood my quondam Yankee prisoner.

"Two hours later we were trotting up a long avenue of cottonwoods toward a beautiful white mansion, embowered in vines. As we rode up the broad veranda which faced the avenue the hall door opened and a servant in a white uniform, accompanied by a bearded, fair-haired, blue eyed young man, stepped out. The elder lady stood at the head of the steps, and as I advanced she placed her hands upon my shoulders, and bending forward kissed me on the forehead.

Violets are par excellence the perfume of true women of the world. Their discreet, lasting and penetrating fragrance is refreshing in the extreme and very distinctive.

It is a flower of legend, and its delicious odor has something mythical about it. According to tradition, this dainty, dewy flower was once a dismal real altar of roses is so expensive as to be beyond the reach of most people, but I may add that one drop of this all powerful essence is sufficient to fill the entire house with fragrance, whereas a drop of any imitation, found at all purfumeries, would not achieve the same result.

MUCH GOOD IN WOMEN DISEASES.

Great Use of Women to Lessen Danger of Disease.

If we cultivated more use of perfumes, there would be less disease in the world, it being proved beyond a doubt that no epidemic ever enters a perfume laboratory, hospital or other place of escape.

Perfumes escape contagion by carrying mask in their clothes. Moreover perfumes contain nutritious elements, for Pliny tells us of an Indian tribe whose nourishment was confined to certain perfumes. Oh, people, it is said, may prolong their lives by mixing saffron and castor oil with their wines. Bacon mentions a man who fasted many days by surrounding himself with aromatic herbs.

On the 21st of the month I drove up to Watson's store, which I found full of people, among whom were many men who looked as if they might have been seasoned veterans at one time. I had shaken hands with Watson and one or two of his friends whom I recognized as confined to certain perfumes.

"He here is now!" Not thinking the remark had any reference to myself, I paid no attention until "Give us your par, courage," sounded.

"I suppose I stood face to face with the big bearded giant who had listened so intently to my story on that night six weeks before. By his side stood a fair faced, fair haired, blue eyed man of 35 or 37 years. The young man looked me over from head to foot, then back to my face again, as if looking for some point of identification, until his intent gaze began to annoy me, but a minute later his eyes brightened and his face lit up with a smile of pleasure.

"Don't know, do you?" said he.

"No, I don't believe I ever saw you before, yet—as a smell lit up his face—"yet—there's something about you seems familiar."

" Didn't you think you would forget your Yankee prisoner—the one who eat up your grub down near Winchester in '63?"

"What?" I ejaculated, and then it all became clear. There was the same sunny smile, the same laughing face, but the man before me was almost middle aged, bearded and dressed in a suit of clothes which I had but a strippling of a boy. I forgot the years which had elapsed, but that all came to me in a flash, and there before me, 30 years after it had occurred, stood my quondam Yankee prisoner.

"Two hours later we were trotting up a long avenue of cottonwoods toward a beautiful white mansion, embowered in vines. As we rode up the broad veranda which faced the avenue the hall door opened and a servant in a white uniform, accompanied by a bearded, fair-haired, blue eyed young man, stepped out. OLD MILITARY STUPIDS.

"What made you leave the army so early in age, with such a fair record before you?" I asked him.

"I was not apt to do so, as Watson's 'big orders' meant big sales, and so it was agreed."

"On the 21st of the month I drove up to Watson's store, which I found full of people, among whom were many men who looked as if they might have been seasoned veterans at one time.

THE ADVOCATE.

HORSE AND TRACK.

During 1895 over one thousand races were trotted on 214 different tracks in France, in which 2,100 horses took part.

John R. Gentry has passed three miles in 2:04 or better; Jim Patchen two, Mascot, Flying Jib and Online one each.

There are now 46 trotters in the 2:10 list, 65 in the 2:11 list, 115 in the 2:12 list, 188 in the 2:13 list, 273 in the 2:14 list and 399 in 2:15 list.

John Dickerson has purchased of Budd Dible the three-year-old colt Guyell by Axtell, 2:12, dam Guy, by Guy Wilkes, and his dam, The consideration was $2,000.

Dick Curtis is jogging David B., 2:09.1, on the by-ways of Lexington. He will campaign him again next year. Miss Nelson, 2:12, is taking a rest for the winter at Greenfield, Mr. Curtis' home.

Bob Harriman of Bunceton, Mo., has sold a carload of horses to Oakwood Farm, near Chicago, Ill., for $5,000. In the lot was the pacer Trust 2:14 and several youngsters by King Jay Bird.

Alix has trotted twenty-one public miles against time in 2:10 or better; Nelly Hanks has eighteen to her credit. In races, Azote has twenty-six heats to his credit in 2:10 or better, Alix fourteen, Circuit thirteen.

Bourbon Wilkes had twenty-seven sons and daughters that were money winners on the trotting tracks the past season and their share of the different purses and stakes amounted to $133,275. The chestnut pacing stallion Bourbon R. was the largest winner, taking $3,055.

Winnie D. by Baron Wilkes and Algeria Queen by Algeria Wilkes, the two mares that took a record of 2:32.2, at the last Ossining meeting here, will be taken by their owner, Andy Welch to Europe, where they will compete for prizes at the spring meeting of the West End Trotting Club at Berlin, Germany.—Stock Farm.

The following horses have trotted four heats in 2:10 or better this season: Azote, nineteen from 2:04 to 2:10, all made in a race except three; Nighnigale, seven, from 2:08 to 2:10, all made in a race; Bonzetta, six, from 2:06 to 2:10, all made in a race; Alix, six, from 2:07 to 2:09, all against time; Kianath, four, from 2:08 to 2:09, all made in a race.

The late John Green, of Dublin, Cal., owner of Circuit, 2:05, by order of his will, which was probated at Oakland last week, gives all of his property, with the exception of a few minor bequests, to his widow, Anna Green. He had six children, all of whom were disinherited. His estate is estimated to be worth $25,000.

If the handsome Chas Derby stallion Diablo, 2:09.1, goes East next season the probabilities are that his owner, Wm. Murray, will take care of him and condition him for his races, and if Andy McDowell goes back he will have the first call to drive him in his races. We believe Diablo will be as great a sensation in the East as he has been here. As a sire, he will be a great loss to California if he remains in the East.—Sportsman.

OIL IN MAGOFFIN.

Good Results Found at an Immense Depth.

Jackson, Ky., Jan. 14.—Owing to the oil excitement prevailing throughout Eastern Kentucky during the past year, much interest is manifested in the prospecting of a well some fifteen miles from here, in Magoffin County. On the farm of Harrison G. Arnett, near Hendricks, in Magoffin County, the Gulf Oil Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., composed of Henry Cooper, C. W. Pratt and L. H. Gormley, Superintendent, have been boring for oil. The enormous depth of 2,382 feet has been reached, 183 feet in solid rock, but all the way down to that point, rock of the slate and lime variety was penetrated. At the distance of 743 feet the flow of water became so great as to overcome the gas, bursting the plug at the top of the seven-inch pipe, shooting into the air eighty feet, and in less than thirty minutes 500 barrels of water escaped to the surface in this way, raising the creek bed by the depth of three inches. At the depth of 1,850 feet a heavy flow of gas set in. Six men, four children and two others worked on this immense hole, and they report their confidence in a good supply of oil to be developed in that immediate locality, which is evidenced by the fact that in a few weeks they will begin operations on another well within 250 feet of the present one, this one having been abandoned. A good flow of oil was, however, realized from the present well. They were engaged in the work from May 20, 1895, to October 1, suspending operations a while in the meantime to work wells in Knob county.

A STURDY FOAL, THE BOERS.

Stew and Uncouth. But Resolute to Defend Their Rights.

Among all the white men now thronging Johanneburg and other parts of the Transvaal in search of gold, how many can say with truth that they know anything of the Dutch farmers? Not one man in a hundred. They will sneer at him, laugh at his gutteral tongue, and his heavy, uncouth ways, rail at his government; but as taking the trouble to acquire his language and find out something of the inner heart of the man, they will not do it—in their feverish search for fortune they have not the time.

And yet this farmer of the wilderness, rough and uncouth, and often sly and suspicious as he is, has a great and stirring history behind him in South Africa, of which he is, and has a right to be proud. He and his have struggled, and trekked and warred, and been massacred, and have suffered in blood and purse, and toil and wealth these 250 years past. I doubt whether even an equal number of English peasants, farmers, soldiers and settlers, if they had been planted at the Cape in 1863, as the early Dutch were, would have emerged from the long struggle so little spoiled, and having lost so little of their natural characteristics.

The Dutch Afrikanders are still of pure European blood, they still cling with the simplest and sublimest faith to the literal teaching of their Bibles, still cherish with deep affection their wives and families, still go about their herding and hunting and trekking in the old slow, unconquerable, dogged spirit of their ancestors, still turn their faces north, and as their pastures grow small and crowded, trek for new lands with undimmed hope and vigor.

For my part, whenever I shake hands with one of these great slow-moving Boers, I forget his uncouth ways, his oddities, his lack of the thin veneer of modern culture, and think to myself—this man, despite his unpolished exterior, is one of a band of heroes who have endured manifold sufferings, whose bones litter the silent veldt in every distant nook and corner of South Africa, and who are, upon the whole, as fine a race of pioneers as the world has seen. They have their faults and weaknesses, these people, but what nationality has not?

The Boers are a race of hunters, as well as pastoralists, and the Transvaal Boers especially have been engaged in a war of extermination (lamentable to the lover of animal life), against every species of wild beast. Numbers of them have been occupied ever since boyhood in the hunting of elephants, buffaloes, lions, rhinoceroses and other heavy game. They have practically exterminated the elephant south of the Zambezi, and the buffalo is be-knocking at the door of health. He knocks the right way, and stays out longer. There are a thousand ways of getting sick. There is also a right way to get well. Do whatever you will, you will never improve your digestion in general, unless you make your blood rich and pure, you will never be healthy. Rich, pure blood is the only thing that can give you perfect health. A large part of all the diseases that afflict us are traceable directly to impurities in the blood, and can be removed by cleaning up all these impurities. That most dreadful of all diseases is syphilis, because of some inherited or acquired weakness. If it is not treated and without germs, the disease would never develop and in time weakness itself would force the body to move, and the blood float along through the body until they find a weak spot for lodgement. They then multiply rapidly, and the disease, by the name of the organ affected. As a fact, the disease is always a parasite, and wherever it finds a place to live, the disease will be cured. That is a permanent national condition, endorsed by the best medical authority.

In accordance with Dr. Peter's Golden Medical Discovery we find the first thing it does is to put the whole digestive system in motion, stimulates the appetite, excites the copious secretion of the digestive fluids and promotes the absorption of the nutriment wherever they may be, kills them and forces them out of the system. The "Golden Remedy" has been known and used with unvarying success for over 30 years.

If you care to know more about it and more about the "Golden Remedy," send a cover cost of mailing only, and you will receive absolutely free a copy of Dr. Peter's 100 page book, "The Golden Remedy," published by the American Dispensary Medical Association, No. 66 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

coming scarce. No man who understands South African hunting can pretend to say that the chase of these animals is not a dangerous one, requiring the highest qualities of nerve and courage. I will not say that the average Boer hunter will, by way of recreation, face the lion singlehanded in the way that the great English hunters—Selous, Ossew, Vardon, Gordon-Cumming, Baldwin and others have accustomed him to. Few hunters, indeed, are so Quixotic. The Boer treats the lion as dangerous vermin, if possible obtains help from his fellows, and by a volley. But hundreds of Boers have slain lions singlehanded, and hundreds have been mauled and even killed by lions.—London Times.

DETENTION FOR DEBT.

An Extraordinary Writ Issued by a Birmingham Court.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 15.—The Chancery Court to-day issued a writ of ne exeat against Robert Sturges, a jeweler, who is alleged by creditors in Chicago, Cincinnati, New York and elsewhere, to have failed for fraudulent purposes.

The writ is a most extraordinary one, designed to detention or imprisonment for debt. Only twice before in this State's history has been resorted to. Yesterday the complaining creditors filed a bill of complaint against Sturges, to locate certain monies and jewels he is alleged to have moved from his store and hid away. To-day they alleged that Sturges was preparing to leave the State with the effects sought, hence the extraordinary bond. Sturges' bond was fixed at $2,500.

Cremating the Killed in Battle.

The advice of military service in the invention of weapon of greater precision and fatality, such as the improved rifles and the Maxim gun, and the use of smokeless powder in battle, have led students of warfare to the adoption of a greater carriage in combat and directed attention anew to the disposal of the dead on the battlefield. Recently the German Emperor called for the opinions of the medical staff of the War Department on the question of using cremation to dismember a battlefield after a sanguinary combat. An invention of this kind would be of supreme interest to all governments as coming from a nation that most carefully studies the art of war. The idea is not novel, however, nor is Germany the first government to consider it. At the International Congress in Paris twenty-eight years ago Dr. Bertoni, of Genoa, proposed cremation as the humane, and from a sanitary point of view the soundest method of disposing of the dead in battle, and his arguments were supported by Dr. Castiglioni, another Italian sanitarian.—Louisville Post.

The difference between cheap carpets and good carpets is three years' wear instead of seven or eight; dissatisfaction instead of satisfaction, and 10, 15, or 25 cents a yard in the price. ## DEAD!

BISHOP HAYGOOD.

Great and Good Man Gone to His Reward.

A Great Loss to His Denomination and the World at Large.

The Rev. Dr. Atticus Green Haygood, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, died of paralysis at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, at Oxford, Ga., aged 56 years.

To the Courier-Journal Dr. Morton, Secretary of the Board of Church Extension of the M. E. Church, South, said:

"As a preacher Bishop Haygood was critical and forceful, and dealing as he always did with popular theme was exceedingly effective and useful, and was highly esteemed by the people at large, as a platform speaker he had few equals; he was thoroughly aggressive and up-to-date in all his views and movements. He was much interested in the welfare of the freedmen of the South, and wrote a book, 'Our Brother in Black,' and many magazine, review and newspaper articles in their interest. Besides this he canvassed the entire South in the distribution of the Slated Educational Fund, and made one or more trips North during which he delivered to large and interested audiences in New York, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and other centers, addresses which attracted the attention of the whole country. He was also the author of several hundred pages each upon the evidences of Christianity and other topics, designed for the general enlightenment of the masses. His last published book, and perhaps his best, 'The Monk and the Prince,' has had a very wide sale. He was a prodigious worker, and his early death is no doubt largely attributed to the excessive amount of labor done by him in the last few years. His influence in the church in which he was a Bishop was wide-spread, and he is likely to prove permanent."

Mr. David B. Honaker, the Florida of Lexington, died in the city Monday, working up his business, which is under the charge of the Woman's Exchange. Mr. Honaker understands his business thoroughly and in every instance gives satisfaction.

Dr. J. P. Hendrick, of Flemingsburg, was in the city Monday and in company with Rev. A. J. Arrick, left for Bowen, Powell county, where they will conduct a meeting this week.

Mr. Robert Botts, of Carlisle, aged 57 years, died Sunday from pneumonia. He was formerly sheriff of Nicholas county, and a fine man.

Ex-President Harrison has had a ring made, the engraving in which is "M." This is significant and his friends in Indianapolis are preparing for a grand reception.

January Court Day.

There were about 1500 cattle on the market. Quality was good, and to say that the market was brisk does not express it.

Good feeders brought $4; yearlings as high as $3.40; heifers at $2.35 to $2.75; cows at from 2 to 2½.

The buying was brisk and the pens were cleaned up by night. We did not get the names of all the stockmen that were here with cattle, but there was about the same number that usually come on Court Day.

Robert Bonner says Sunol 2:08½ is going sound and he has hopes of her new run on the turf. She is now ten years old.

Jas. R. Magowan and A. G. Peters each have an entry in the Stock Farm $5,000 stake. There ought to have been at least ten or fifteen colts entered from this country.

They are Donna Rex, six years old, by Shawmut, dam by Dictator, and Bonni May, five years old, by Bond McGregor. The Governor will drive them on the road. They can trot together in 2.35, and are well matched. They were shipped to their new owner last week.

The trotting race horse Trevillion 2:08½ will be campaigned again this year, after a limited season in the stud. This horse has shown his ability to go a half in one minute and a quarter better than thirty seconds in his races. When in good condition and properly rated it is believed by many that the stallion record is easily within his power. In his great number of races as a three, four and five year-old against horses of his own age he has also defeated such campaigners as Aztec in his class and has never been behind the money. Last season, in his six-year-old form, he was not worked for speed but made a full book in the stud to some of the best breeding mares in Kentucky.

The heavy shay of horses by M. de Beauvais to France recently had a very rough passage across the English Channel, and seven were killed, or died from their injuries immediately after landing. The trip to London was made with little trouble, but in the short shipment across the channel the horses were not so well secured. The trip, which should have been made in a few hours, took five days and only feed and water for twenty-four hours was provided.
